Helping Kids Discover Who They Are

Wednesday Evenings January 11-February 15
6:15-7:45 p.m.

KidUnique is a call to build a meaningful, life-giving relationship with a kid. It is one way to combat much of the negativity, frustration, and hopelessness felt by the younger generation. It is a strategy that allows us to turn down the volume on a culture whose goal is to negatively shape our kids' values and identity. Our call as adults is to take action with a strategy that will aggressively breathe life into a kid.

Facilitators:

Beth Footh and Dori Gillings

Beth brings 37 years of community and special education nursing to the classroom, with much of her work with children and youth.

Dori is an occupational therapist in the schools and the mother of two "tween" boys. She has been involved with both Girl and Boy Scout programs since youth, and finds the KidUnique program to be a perfect complement to these and other youth experiences.

To Register:

Cost is $15/person; $20/couple to cover materials ($5 if you have materials)

"Few things are as uplifting for a kids as hearing positive truthful words spoken in ways that touch the very core."
